

Covid-19 International E-Congress

September 12th 2020

Call for papers

We invite you to be part of the first international scientific exchange surrounding the Covid-19 pandemic.

This event, organized by the French Association of Emergency Doctors (AMUF)¹ and the French-speaking Society of Intensive Care (SRLF)² seeks to foster an open discussion that will help health professionals move forward through the sharing of knowledge.

The congress will take place online and will be accessible to everyone free of charge.

We invite you to submit your work in the form of presentations, algorithms, graphics, pedagogical and/or free speech videos, along with your résumé before August the 10th to the following e-mail address: contact.econgresint@gmail.com.

The scientific committee, led by academic experts of international renown, will study the submissions, favoring those with the most enriching and innovative content. Proposals from all disciplinary perspectives are welcome.
